The Water Tiger

Lunar Year begins February 1, 2022 - Solar Year begins February 4, 2022

The two elements that are relevant in 2022 are Wood and Water----the Tiger is a Wood animal which is teamed up this year with Yang Water. This combination is positive because Water offers support to Wood, enabling it to grow and expand. In turn, Wood gives Water stability in order for it to attain its goals.

The Water element symbolizes vital essence, spiritual communication, maturity and deep emotions. Water in its Yang form is characterized by kindness, alertness, curiosity, sense of observation, exemplary self-control and intuitive intelligence.

The Tiger represents energy, strength, protection, leadership, respect. The Tiger also brings with it vulnerability and over-estimation---an “all or nothing” attitude. Tiger energy is believed to guard against the three main things that can bring devastation to any home: fire, thieves and ghosts. Because of the sheer, raw power of the Tiger, this Zodiac sign is honored in China as the ultimate protector of home and family.

The Year of the Tiger brings a Travelling Star which could mean people will travel more in 2022 or they could even move. Sixty years ago, when the Tiger was paired with Yang Water, John Glenn orbited the earth three times; Norway launched a rocket; NASA launched a space probe.

The Tiger also brings an Academic Star as well in 2022 which can enhance academic abilities. This may be the year to go back to school, or take a course, or write a book. It's a time for creativity and growth.

In general, stock markets are predicted to continue their upward climb.

The Wood Tiger year will be supportive of starting new projects and advancing forward, personally or professionally. Just as a mother Tiger nurtures her cubs, however, you must pay attention to your new ideas. It is very easy for Tiger energy to get you started in one direction and then distract you to another venture. If you don't lose focus, the Tiger will help you advance for this is a time of opportunities and even prosperity. and then distract you to another venture. If you don't lose focus, the Tiger will help you advance for this is a time of opportunities and even prosperity.

This will not be an entirely peaceful year. Politically, there will be major realignments, theatrical coups, revolution, prospects of war and positive opportunities. The Year of the Tiger will bring change on many levels, for sure.

It will be a year for many people, not just those born in the Year of the Tiger, to expand their ideas, tap into some new creative projects, take on an unexpected venture-----and, well, have some opportunities to roar.
